Text: The Father of Modern Medicine

Avicenna Ibn Sina' is one of the eminent Muslim scientists who was known as *The Father of Modern Medicine".*He was born in 980 in Bukhara, Iran. He was a Persian physician and a doctor. He was very intelligent and studied many subjects, including philosophy, science, and medicine. At age 10, he had already memorized the Quran and much of Arabic poetry.

Ibn Sina wrote almost 450 books covering different fields of knowledge, but his most famous work is "The Canon of Medicine" which was a 1-million-word medical encyclopedia adapted from Greek, Islamic, and earlier Persian works. His documents were used as the standard medical textbook through the 18th century in Europe.

In addition to some of his contributions; recognizing contagious diseases, introducing quarantine (40 days) to limit their spread, and improving clinical trials procedures. His intelligence and memory were legendary. Ibn-Sina passed away in 1037 in Hamadan, Iran.
